Don't let the bed bugs bite!

Sleeping bag liners are practical for many reasons – they're much easier to wash than the bag itself, they keep you warmer in winter and are more pleasant next to the skin. But the reason NoBug Liners are so good is clear from their name! These sleeping bag liners, offered in pure cotton or luxurious lightweight silk, are impregnated with HealthGuard Vital Protection, making them repellent to biting insects. So whether you're staying in a potentially bug-ridden hotel bed or camping out in the midge-infested Highlands, you'll be perfectly protected from painful bites while asleep. HealthGuard treatment is also antibacterial, helping to keep the liner fresh on sweaty summer nights. Treatment stays bug-resistant for up to 35 machine washes. Mummy-style liners measure 90" x 29½" x 19½" (230 x 75 x 50cm).

A breakthrough in comfort and convenience for women

Now there's no way to describe this revolutionary idea without discussing natural bodily functions, so please bear with us. When you don't want to sit on an unsanitary public toilet or when you have to go outdoors – or if you find it hard to squat down or hover – use the Whiz®. This ingenious British invention enables women to urinate in a standing position. Called a 'urine director', it has a cleverly-designed 'lily shield' shape that fits snugly against the groin. Once you start, nature and gravity do the rest; urine is directed away from the body so there are no splashes or accidents. You don't even have to remove outer or underclothing. The Whiz® is made from a high-grade thermoplastic elastomer, impregnated with anti-bacterial and anti-fungal agents for hygiene. Folds to carry in pocket or bag. Rinses clean in seconds. 6" (15cm) long.
